

Workplaces in flux

Real estate firm CBRE spoke to experts, business leaders and young people from the Asia-Pacific, Europe and North America on their thoughts about the future of work and the workplace in 2030. Here are some of the results.

85%

Believe that work and life will become more enmeshed for more people by 2030.

77%

Believe that the physical workplace environment will become more important as the ability to work virtually increases.

85%

Recognise wellness as a critical issue for workplaces.