

Hours of terror

Wounded people evacuated from the Stade de France.

① Stade de France

• 9.15pm French President Francois Hollande is at the Stade de France watching a friendly match between France and Germany when an explosion is heard from just outside the stadium. Minutes later, another explosion is heard. He is evacuated to safety as the game continues, with France winning 2-0. Spectators disperse calmly after the match.

Forensic officers collecting evidence outside Le Petit Cambodge.

② Rue Alibert

• 9.20pm Shots are fired at people sitting at outdoor tables of two restaurants – Carillon and Le Petit Cambodge.

③ Rue de la Fontaine-au-Roi

• 9.32pm Shots are fired at Casa Nostra, a pizza place.

Soldiers and ambulance workers near La Belle Equipe.

④ Rue de Charonne

• 9.36pm Shootings are heard at a bar called La Belle Equipe.

⑤ Boulevard Voltaire

• 9.43pm A suicide bombing at a cafe called Comptoir Voltaire in Boulevard Voltaire.

Fire brigade members helping an injured man near the Bataclan theatre.

⑥ Bataclan theatre

• 9.45pm The attackers fire the first shots at Bataclan, which is packed with 1,500 people attending a concert by the California band Eagles of Death Metal. The attackers shoot into the crowd at random.

• 11.40pm Many fans escape before commandos storm the building and shoot dead one assailant. Three other attackers kill themselves by activating their suicide vests.

⑦ President's office, the Elysee Palace

• 11.58pm After a crisis meeting, Mr Hollande addresses the nation and declares a state of emergency. He also announces a closure of national borders. Security is heightened in the Paris region, with 1,500 additional troops deployed.