

Match points: Tottenham v Leicester

Key battles

Harry Kane v Wes Morgan

Kane's first Premier League hat-trick came against Leicester, in a 4-3 win in March. If he has carried on scoring, Leicester, with four clean sheets in eight, have stopped conceding. Captain Morgan is a major reason why. He has emerged as a leader and an increasingly accomplished defender, especially when paired with Robert Huth.

Nabil Bentaleb v Gokhan Inler

Two who were expected to play much bigger roles this season. Bentaleb lost his place as the holding midfielder to Eric Dier while Inler has been overshadowed by fellow summer signing N'Golo Kante. Both could be given rare chances tomorrow, with each looking to exert control in the centre of the field and supply more to attacking players.

Kieran Trippier v Demarai Gray

Leicester were quick to sign in this transfer window. The 19-year-old winger Gray joined from Birmingham for £3.75 million ($$7.85 million). This could be the debut of a speedy, skilful player coveted by many clubs. Trippier excelled as a wing-back on his last outing, at Watford, but is likelier to return as an orthodox right-back if Kyle Walker is rested.

Key statistics

Cup of tea for Spurs

Tottenham have won the FA Cup eight times. Only Manchester United (11) and Arsenal (12) have won it more often. Spurs beat Leicester 2-0 in the 1961 final when they became the first club to do the Double in the 20th century.

Only heartbreak for Leicester

Leicester are the only club to reach at least four FA Cup finals and never win one.

Foxes' goals have dried up

in last 3 games

Leicester have failed to score in their last three games. They had scored in all 20 matches this season before then.

Not for their nemesis Kane

in last 4 games

Harry Kane has scored four goals in his last four games against Leicester.

Still promise of goals

in 6 meetings

Their last six meetings have produced 26 goals. Both teams have scored in each of the last 10 games between them.

Cup specialist

Claudio Ranieri has won the Coppa Italia, with Fiorentina, and the Copa del Rey, with Valencia, but never the English FA Cup.
