

#STallclimatechange

What does climate change mean to you?

Take part in our online survey here <http://str.sg/ZyuT>

Doodle a picture, film a video or snap a photograph, and tell us why in 50 words or less!

You can hashtag your entry #STallclimatechange on Instagram, or e-mail us at STscience@sph.com.sg

Here is what climate change means to reporter Audrey Tan:

Climate change is not just an abstract concept or something that could happen in the future. The earth is changing... but we can all play our part to stall climate change. Our oceans help take in carbon produced from human activities, and one simple way to protect them? Stop littering!

The Straits Times will feature the winners in our weekly climate change series, which ends on March 25.

Winners will get two books and a pair of tickets to the Lee Kong Chian Natural History Museum.

Sponsored by

Lee Kong Chian
Natural History Museum