

HIGHER VIGILANCE

Beefing up CCTV coverage over four years

- Additional cameras to cover common heartland areas with high human traffic, such as town centres and walkways to transport nodes
- The Home Team to improve analysis and monitoring of closed-circuit TV (CCTV) footage
- Police will be able to access CCTV footage in more areas, including those monitoring the public transport system and government buildings

New laws for tighter security at buildings, major events

- Security screening at major events
- Home Affairs Ministry to engage developers of large-scale building projects on security measures
- Getting owners of premises to install CCTV systems

A security camera at a lift lobby in Pasir Ris One housing estate. Thousands of CCTV cameras have been installed islandwide at HDB blocks and multi-storey carparks to beef up security.

A member of the Singapore Police Force Special Tactics and Rescue unit preparing to storm a vessel during a showcase of counter-terrorism and maritime security measures at the Police Coast Guard Brani Base yesterday.

STRONGER RESPONSE

Dedicated Police Emergency Response Teams across island

- Specially trained with counter-assault skills
- Equipped with more potent weapons
- Build familiarity with areas they look after

Special forces to be enhanced

- Teams from Special Operations Command and Gurkha contingent to arrive on scene faster

COMMUNITY EFFORT

- New national programme to prepare the community and develop resilience
- The SG Secure programme will revamp and scale up the existing Community Engagement Programme
- Programmes to raise awareness and train Singaporeans to respond to an attack

A multiple terror attack exercise conducted at Kallang Wave Mall last May.