Tale of two defences

Goals conceded

Spurs

Tottenham boast the Premier League's meanest defence. Just four goals have crept past Hugo Lloris, all from set pieces.

Foxes

Leicester, in contrast, have conceded 15, with 11 coming in their last three away games alone.

Leicester the poor travellers

Away form

0 points

Leicester are one of only two teams in the Premier League, along with Burnley, without an away point this season.

Invincible, for now

Tottenham are the only team in England with their unbeaten league record this season still intact.

In need of a goal

Tottenham's $28.8 million striker Vincent Janssen has yet to break his Premier League duck in 411 minutes on the pitch.

Leicester's Jamie Vardy has gone five games without netting a league goal, scoring two in eight starts. He had nine goals at this stage last season.
