

Singapore: Future city

In its report, the Committee on the Future Economy (CFE) said Singapore in future will play the important role of providing the necessary space and infrastructure for its economy to grow and evolve, and in creating an endearing home for Singaporeans. "Our urban development plans must respond to future challenges," the report said. "Several major plans for Singapore's urban transformation are already in place, but there is still much to be done." This map outlines several key future developments.

Jurong Innovation District

A next-generation district for advanced manufacturing, urban solutions, clean technology and smart logistics.

Jurong Lake District

Our second CBD – an inclusive and sustainable live-work-play-learn space for all.

Tuas Terminal

Consolidating container operations in one location.

Woodlands Regional Centre

Punggol

An innovation hub for our cyber security, IT and digital industries.

Changi Air Hub

A vibrant and world-class aviation hub.

One-North

A cluster of world-class facilities and business park spaces for biomedical sciences, infocomm technology and media, physical sciences and engineering.

Singapore River

Orchard Road

A vibrant retail and lifestyle destination with a signature street experience.

Greater Southern Waterfront

Changi Business Park

Tampines Regional Centre

Jurong Island

The cornerstone of our energy and chemicals industry.