

Chinese research stations in Antarctica

Great Wall

- Built in 1985
- Capacity: Up to 80 people during summer

Kunlun

- Built in 2009
- Capacity: 25

Chinese scientists have picked a site for the fifth station, which will be near the Ross Sea. Construction will begin as early as next year. The US has five research stations in Antarctica and Russia has eight.

Zhongshan

- Built in 1989
- Capacity: 60

Taishan

- Built in 2014
- Capacity: 20