

A map of Southeast Asia and Oceania. The Indonesian archipelago is shown in light grey. A red square with a white border is placed on the island of Sumatra, labeled 'Jakarta'. To the east, the island of Bali is labeled. Further east, the island of Timor-Leste is labeled. The Banda Sea is to the northeast, and the Timor Sea is to the southeast. Australia is shown in the bottom right corner. A dark grey arrow points from a box labeled 'Christmas Island' to a small white dot in the Indian Ocean west of Australia. An inset map in the bottom left shows the entire region with a red box around the Indonesian archipelago and a white line indicating the location of Singapore.
