

How the accident happened

Nineteen-year-old National University of Singapore (NUS) undergraduate Kathy Ong died from her injuries after the taxi she was in collided with a car at the junction of Clementi Road and Commonwealth Avenue West last Thursday evening. Three other passengers in the taxi, also NUS students, as well as both drivers, were injured in the accident, which occurred around 7.30pm.

