

“ Critical illnesses can affect any one, at any age. But when it strikes, the majority of Singaporeans are unprepared for the long term financial impact. Only 52 percent are protected against critical illnesses, despite 76 percent saying they worry about being a financial burden to their loved ones, as the AXA Better Beyond Survey revealed. Having appropriate critical illness protection empowers us to be better prepared financially and have the support required to bounce back stronger and live better lives beyond any setbacks. ”
