The rescue

Members of the youth football team trapped in a cave were sedated and carried out individually on stretchers, according to a rescuer.

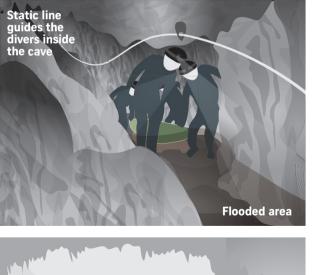

How they did it

Based on first footage released by Thai navy Seals

Static line bolted into rock to lift stretcher

Monitored at regular intervals by doctors posted along the more than 4km-long escape route An ex-navy Seal said all the boys and the coach were sedated throughout the rescue

In narrow passages, divers crouched and guided the stretcher along using a slider

Divers carried each boy through the dark, dank and partially flooded cave
