

Match points: Chelsea v Arsenal

Key battles

Jorginho v Aaron Ramsey

Jorginho completed 94 per cent of his passes against Huddersfield and scored a nonchalant penalty but went untested as a defensive midfielder. Ramsey, with Frank Lampard-esque runs, could change that but the Welshman, who was hauled off after just 54 minutes against Manchester City, has to impress to keep his place.

Eden Hazard v Hector Bellerin

Hazard sparkled in a 15-minute cameo in the 3-0 win at Huddersfield, his first appearance since the World Cup, but Willian, who began on the left, was the most effective of Chelsea's starting attackers. Bellerin has been troubled by Chelsea's Marcos Alonso in the past, and may face a battle for his place with new signing Stephan Lichtsteiner.

David Luiz v Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang

Chelsea manager Maurizio Sarri has said he is confident that Luiz can adapt to playing as one of only two centre-backs. While he passed the ball superbly last week, he struggled defensively in the Community Shield. Sarri wants a high defensive line and the electric Aubameyang, one of the quickest strikers around, could find space behind it if Mesut Ozil can pick him out.

Key statistics

Ailing Gunners

Years since Arsenal lost their first two league games.

Unai Emery was the first Arsenal manager in 42 years to lose his first game.

London gap to bridge

LDDDLL

Chelsea have not beaten Arsenal in their past six meetings.

Striking Blues

105

Goals Olivier Giroud scored while on Arsenal's books.

1 League goal Alvaro Morata has scored in 2018.