

Perceptions of the future

- 67 per cent of Asean youth surveyed believe that technology will increase their earning power, while 18 per cent feel it will reduce it.
- But the picture varies significantly by country. Singapore and Thailand are the most pessimistic, while the Philippines and Vietnam are the most optimistic.

Percentage of youth across all Asean countries who think that technology will increase or reduce their earning power

Percentage of youth who think that way in each country

