

Parliament in numbers

165,000

Patients whom the Singapore Civil Defence Force's Emergency Medical Services attended to last year.

8 per cent, or 14,000 of them, could not be identified, as they were unconscious or did not carry identification documents.

Fine of up to $2,500
and jail of up to 6 months

Penalty for impersonating an officer from the Singapore Civil Defence Force.

$34,000

Extra costs a grassroots organiser paid on average for expenses like transport and storage for street festivals from 2014 to 2016, instead of including these in a tender. The administrative lapse was flagged by the Auditor-General's Office earlier this year.

10,900

Foreign patients attended to in public hospitals last year. They made up 1.5 per cent of the total number of patients.

430,000

Additional number of managers and executives to benefit from the expansion of the Employment Act.
