

LONDON BRIDGE TERROR ATTACK

The busy crossing across River Thames came to a standstill on Friday when a former prisoner convicted of terrorist offences set out on a killing spree, which left two people dead and three injured. This is how it happened.

1 Usman Khan (left), 28, was attending a conference on prisoner rehabilitation in London's Fishmongers' Hall when he attacked attendees returning for an afternoon session.

2 Wielding knives, Khan left the building and made his way to the London Bridge nearby where the crowd, including one person armed with a 1.5m-long ornamental narwhal tusk taken from the Fishmongers' Hall (below), tried to subdue him.

3 At 1.58pm, police were alerted to the attack near London Bridge. Within five minutes, officers were on the scene, and streets in the area were placed under lockdown.

Fishmongers' Hall

Suspect shot dead by police

London Bridge

4 Khan, who was wearing a fake suicide vest, was wrestled to the ground by members of the public, with one man claiming to have kicked Khan in his head to dislodge his knife. A man in a suit and tie (right) managed to take away the weapon.

5 One video posted on social media showed police pulling a man in civilian clothes off the suspect. A split second later, police shot the suspect dead.

Office workers watching police near the scene of the attack on London Bridge in central London on Friday.

People being evacuated from London Bridge, near where the attack took place.