

Car makes U-turn moments before fatal crash

The Straits Times pieces together how the accident outside Lucky Plaza unfolded on Sunday, based on eyewitnesses' videos and CCTV footage.

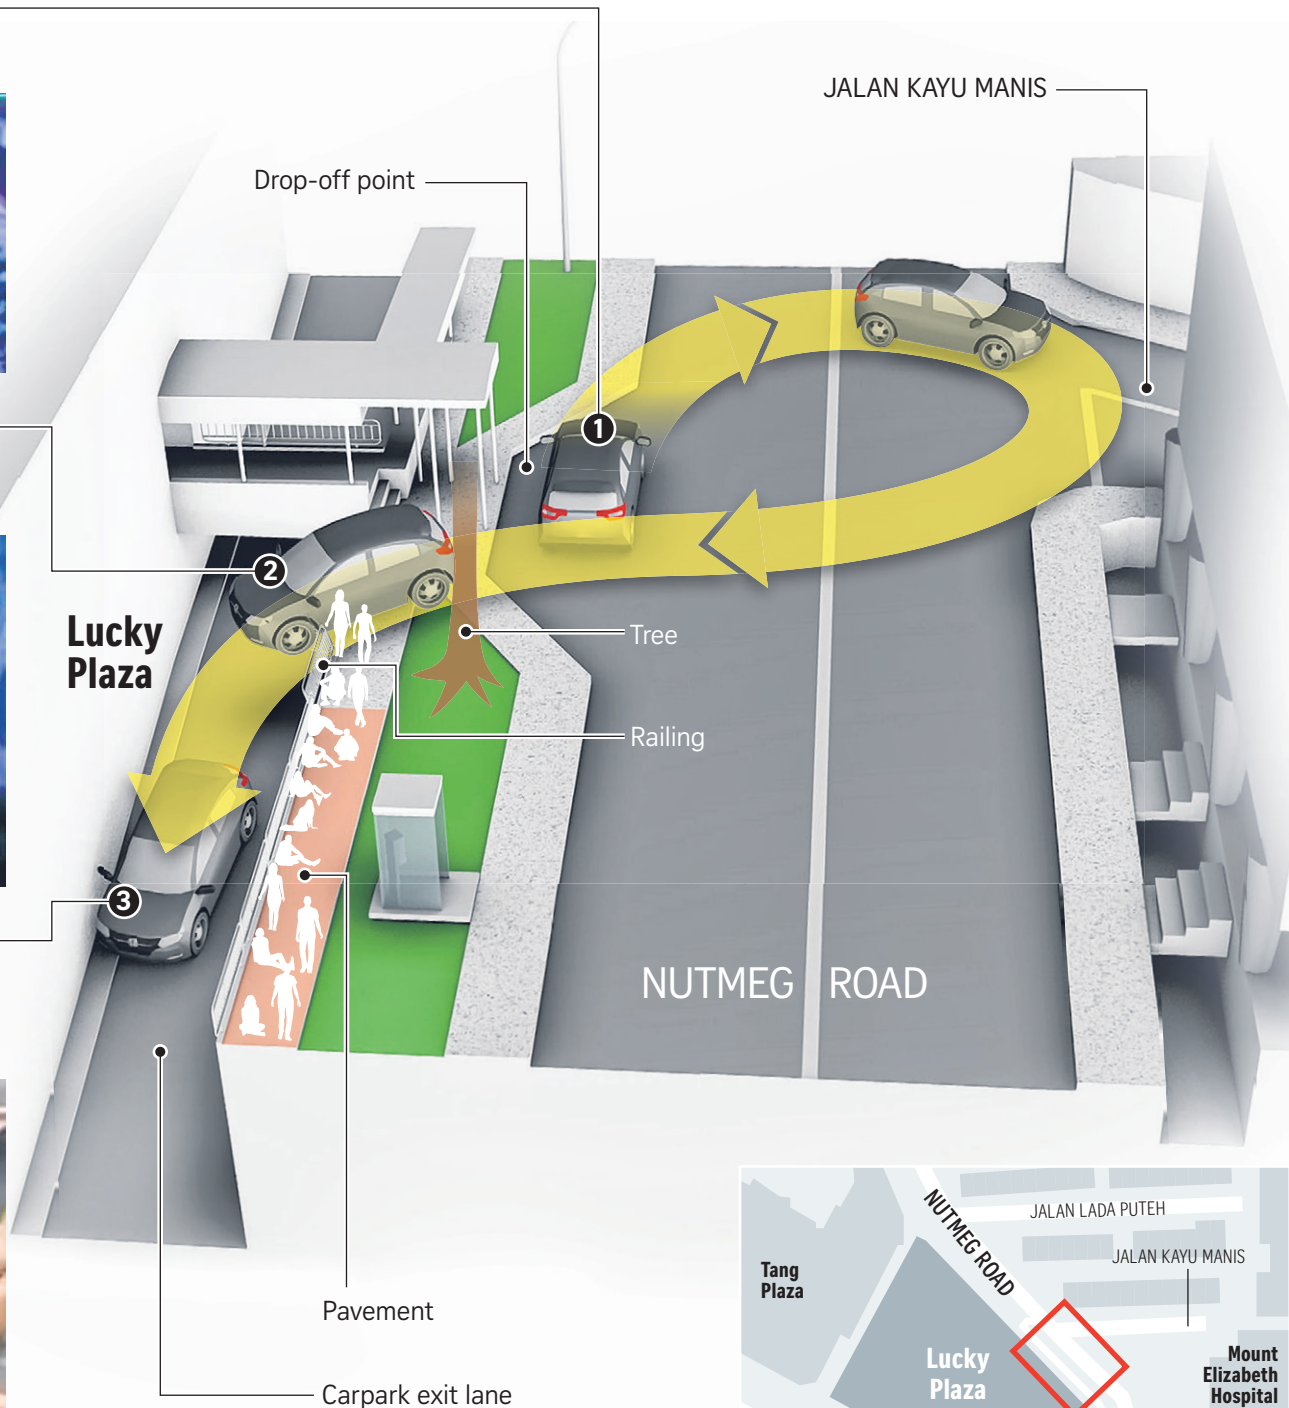

- 1 The black Honda Vezel stops outside Lucky Plaza's apartment block before driving off and making a U-turn.

- 2 It accelerates, mounts the kerb, crashes into some Filipino workers having a picnic on the pavement, and plunges a few metres onto Lucky Plaza's carpark exit road below.

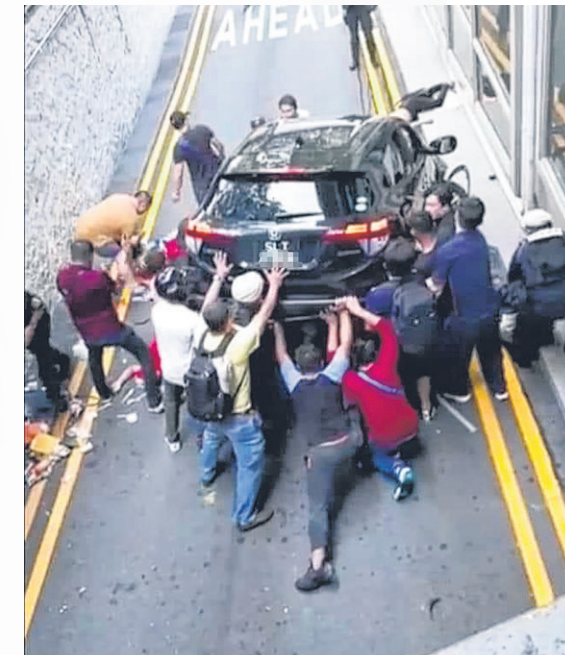

- 3 Four women who were on the pavement are flung below. One is trapped underneath the car. Amid the screams of bystanders, a man and a woman are seen running down to help. Policemen on duty nearby also arrive.

Casualties

Dead: 2 Hospitalised: 2 Discharged: 2

More than 10 people come together to lift the car so the woman underneath can be pulled out. Others at the scene - including paramedics who have arrived - are seen doing CPR on three women. The fourth woman is comforted by the man who had run down earlier. The four are taken to Tan Tock Seng Hospital.

The car's 64-year-old driver has, meanwhile, got out of the car. He appears unhurt and is spotted sitting near the crash. Police arrest him for dangerous driving causing death. He is a driver with ride-hailing firm Grab but it is not clear if he had just dropped off a passenger or was on his way to pick one up before the crash.
