

New Bidadari estate takes shape

Once the largest grave site in Singapore, Bidadari is coming to life as the first batch of residents move into their new Build-To-Order (BTO) flats. In all, 881 families across two projects have been progressively receiving the keys to their new homes since last July.

ALKAFF VISTA

- Four residential blocks ranging from seven to 17 storeys
- 350 units comprising four- and five-room flats

The development will be linked to Bidadari Greenway, a cycling and pedestrian network, that runs alongside the new Bidadari Park Drive, one of three new roads in the estate. It has a multi-purpose pavilion and a large playground next to My World Preschool on the ground floor.

All residential blocks in Alkaff Vista are directly connected to a landscaped roof garden which forms a central community space for residents.

ALKAFF LAKEVIEW

- Three 17-storey residential blocks
- 531 units comprising three- and four-room flats

The heart of the development is a landscaped roof garden that overlooks the Alkaff Lake which, when completed, will have a conserved rain tree on a little island in the middle. A supermarket, coffee shop, childcare centre and shops are expected to open when more residents move in.

A landscaped roof deck, fitted with two playgrounds and a fitness station, sits on top of the three-storey carpark.

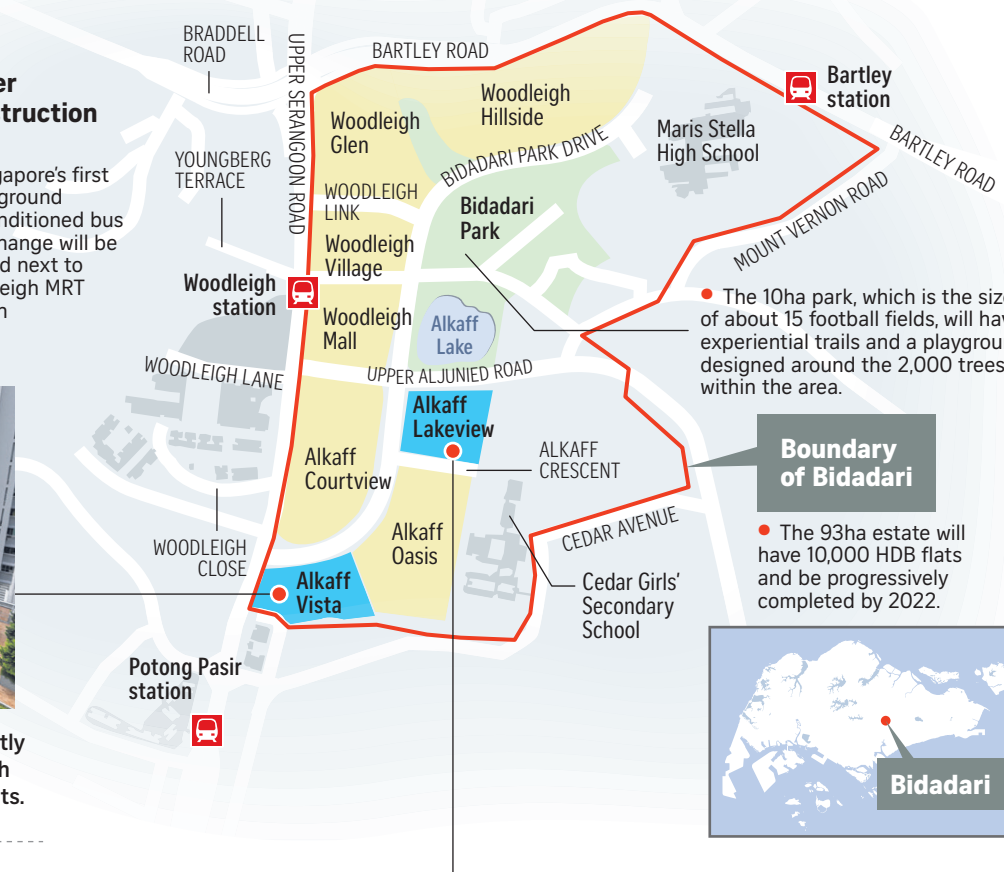

There are wide paths and ramps for wheelchair access in the garden to promote ageing in place.
