'In This Together' Daily Colouring Challenge

Brought to you by Pulse by Prudential

70 readers will win $500 cash each
Open to all age groups

Beat the Covid-19 stay-at-home blues by taking part in the 'In This Together' colouring challenge.

- Every day, from May 18 to 24, one drawing will appear in the Life section of The Straits Times.
- This is a daily challenge.
- Each daily challenge has a different online submission form and deadline (see below).
- Each artwork will be judged individually.
- You can take part in one challenge or many challenges. But you can win only once.
- You can use pencils, crayons and so on. Be creative! Artworks will be judged on creativity, composition and attention to details.
- The colouring can be done on the actual newspaper page of the Life section. We also accept hand coloured or a printed copy of the artwork downloaded from the e-paper version of The Straits Times. No digital colouring will be accepted.
- The contest is open to both young and old. There is no age limit.
- You may do the challenge alone or as a family.
- To submit your entry, take a photo of the finished artwork.
- Maximum file upload size is 5MB. Only pdf, jpg and png file extension formats will be accepted.
- For each daily challenge, there will be 10 winners. Each winning entry will win $500 in cash, sponsored by Pulse by Prudential.
- The judges' decision is final. No correspondence will be entertained.

To submit today's entry, go to str.sg/challenge-May23

- Entry must come in by 1pm on Monday, May 25.
- All 70 winners for the 7 daily challenges will be announced in The Sunday Times on May 31, 2020.
- For inquiries on contest rules, e-mail mkgstpromo@sph.com.sg

We're in this together, and when each of us does his or her part, we can overcome the challenges and emerge stronger as a community.
