

Key findings

English language should be used in the public sphere

Perceptions on language prejudice in Singapore (2018), compared with five years ago

English proficiency of respondents who can speak Singlish "well" or "very well", suggesting ability to "code-switch"

